

A handy guide to Starbucks Coffee Sizes

short 8 oz. Not on the menu, but you can ask for it. For hot drinks only.	tall 12 oz. if you ask for a "small", you'll get this.	grande 16 oz. if you ask for a "medium", you'll get this.	venti 20 oz. (hot) "Venti" is italian for "twenty".
venti 24 oz. (cold) "Venti" is italian for ... um ... wait a minute...	venti-venti 40 oz. Drink is laced with MD wine and served in an old "Night Train" bottle.	tossicomane 48 oz. (3 lbs.) "Tossicomane" is italian for "drug addict".	tachicardi 96 oz. (6 lbs.) Fondly known as "Ventricular Dysrhythmia in a Cup"
diavolo 6.66 oz. + 6 oz. tapwater Never put anything in the tipjar? Your next "tall" will be this.	micro 2 oz. 1 shot of cappuccino. Slip barista 50 cents and wink.	nano 0.32 oz. Two tsp. of Americano. Flash barista with a red thong (ladies only).	shuffle 0.08 oz. One raw coffee bean, random variety. Close eyes, open mouth, wait.
avogadro 6×10^{23} molecules Drink is brewed on a bunsen burner and served in a test tube.	escher $1/\phi$ kg. Drink is mixed in an endless waterfall and served in a Klein bottle.	quantum pollock 0 to 20 oz. ingredients are flung randomly towards a "venti" cup.	einstein 12 to ∞ oz. A "tall" is accelerated towards lightspeed until desired mass is reached.
ednarg -16 oz. An anti-gravity "grande" made from negative matter.	%@# $! %@# $! oz. Drink is poured from any size cup onto your new suit.	:-9 0 oz. Virtual drink is served to your Second Life avatar.	self-serve n/a Uh, dude? Wake up. Starbucks is next door. This is a Kinkos.